

How to Fold an Easy Origami Crab

 origami.me/crab/

January 10, 2010

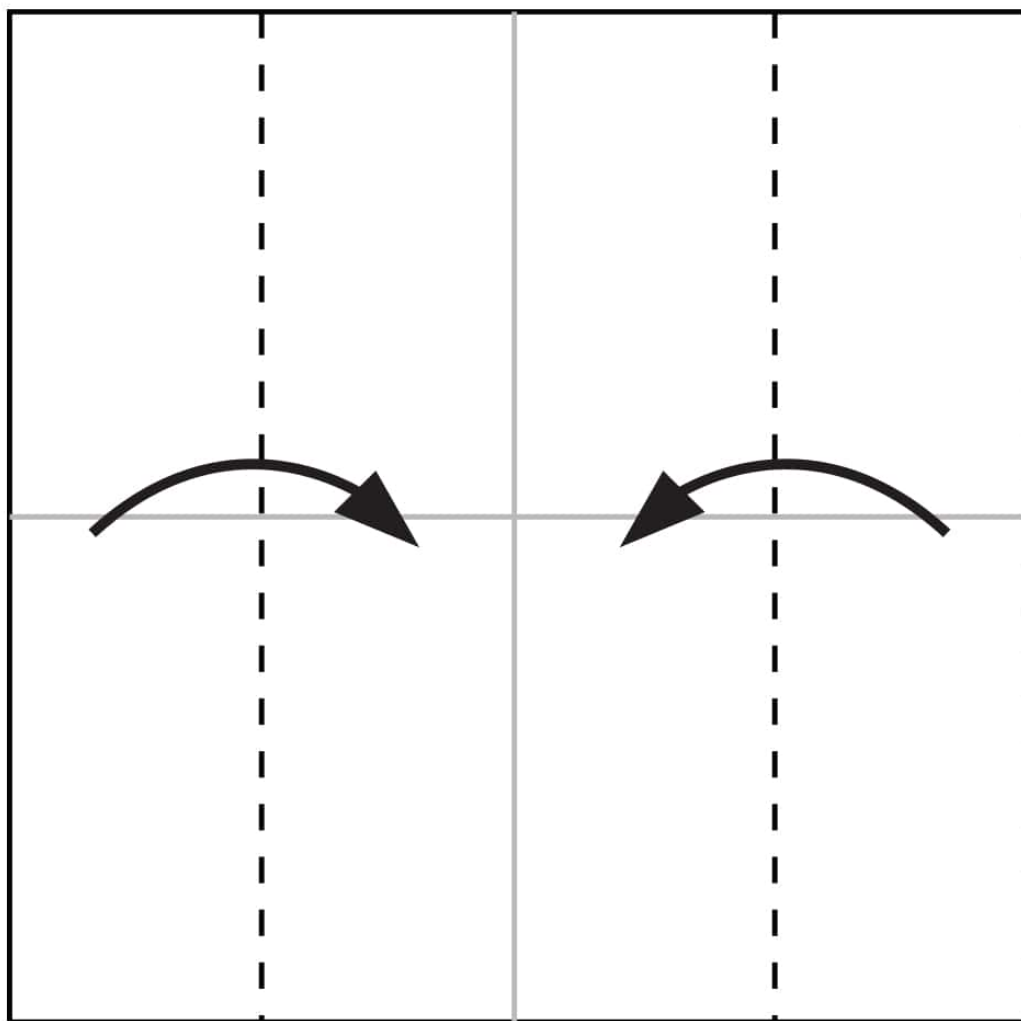

These instructions will show you how to fold an easy origami crab. If you find any of these steps difficult take a moment to check out our Beginner's Guide to learn all the basic folds and techniques.

Begin with a square sheet of paper with the white side facing up.

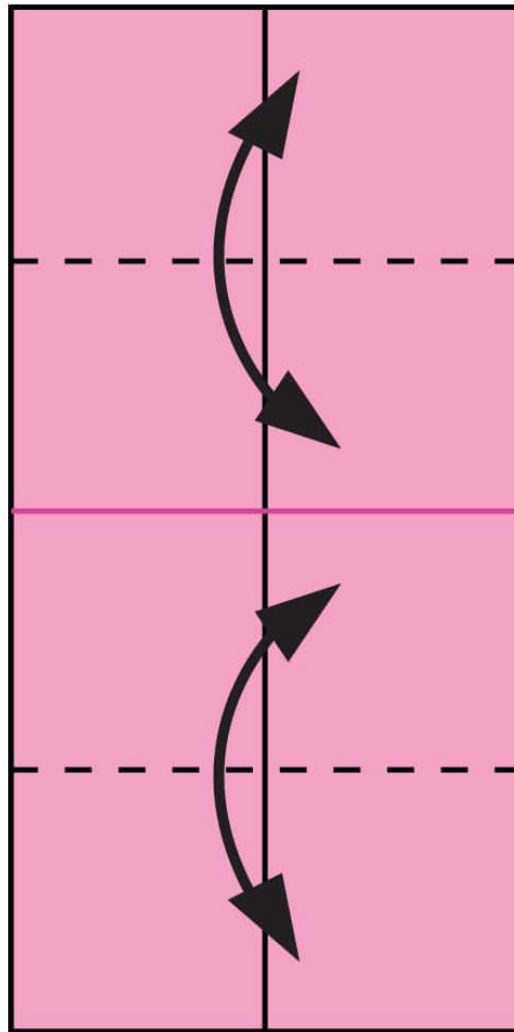

1

Fold and unfold the paper in half both vertically and horizontally.

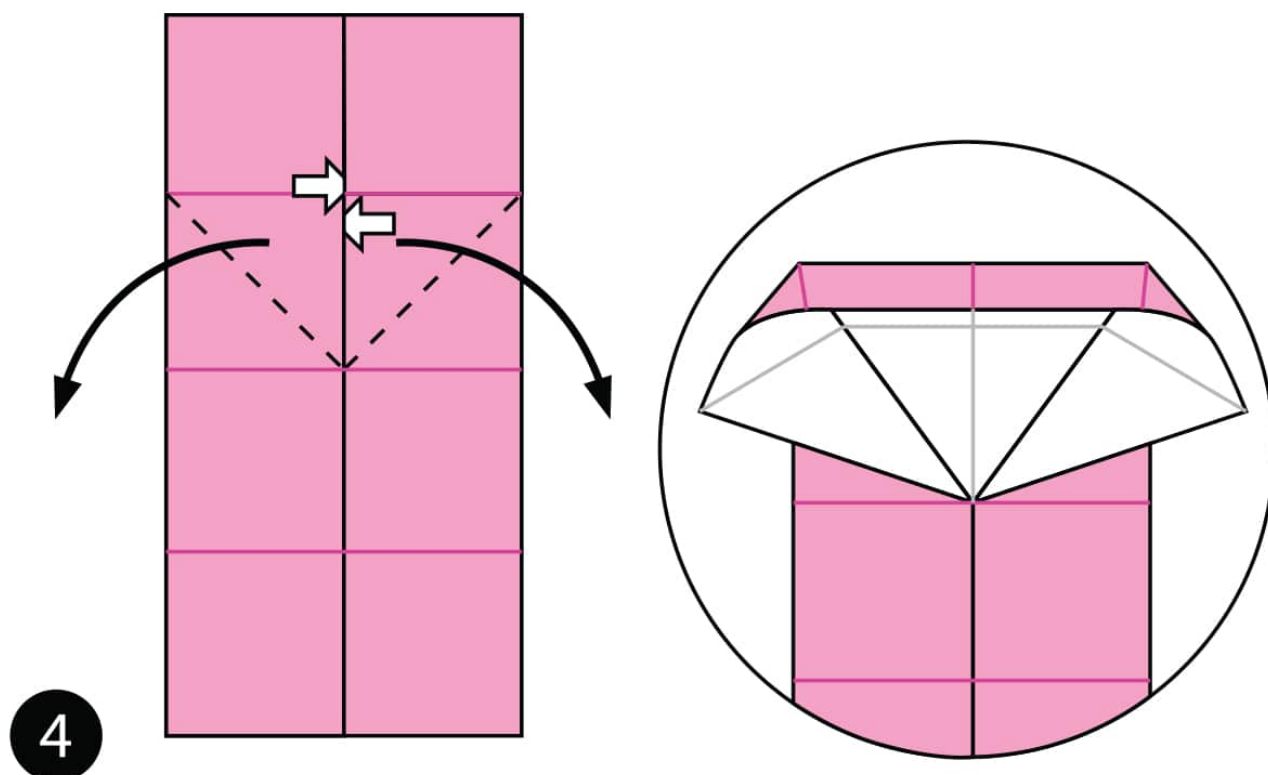

2

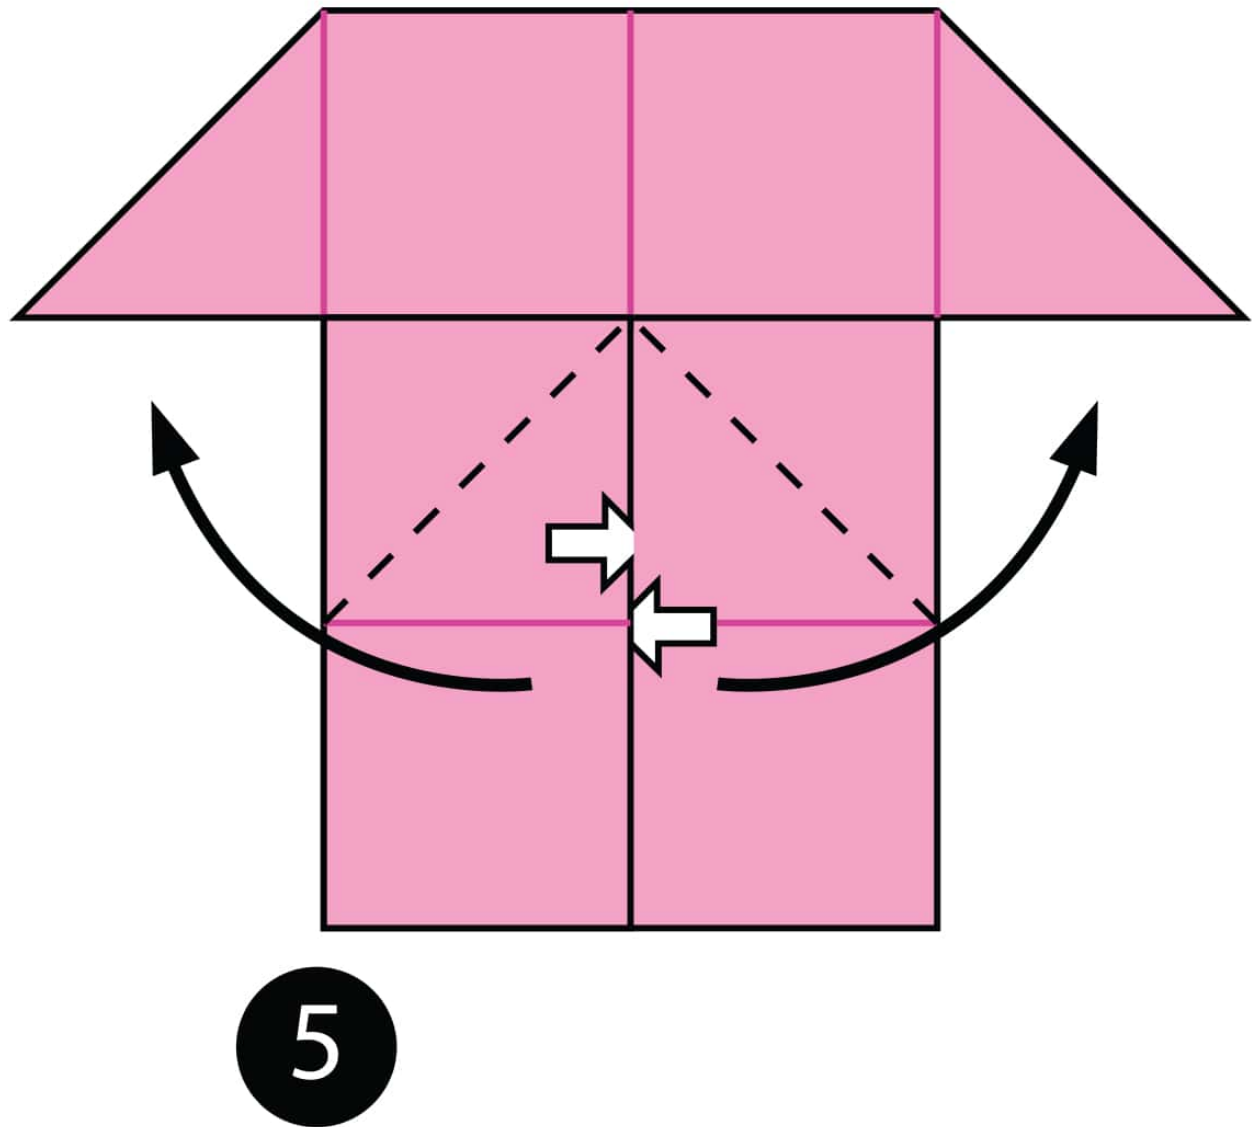

Fold both sides of the paper to the centre along the vertical dotted lines.

3

Fold the top and bottom of the paper to the centre along the dotted lines and then unfold.

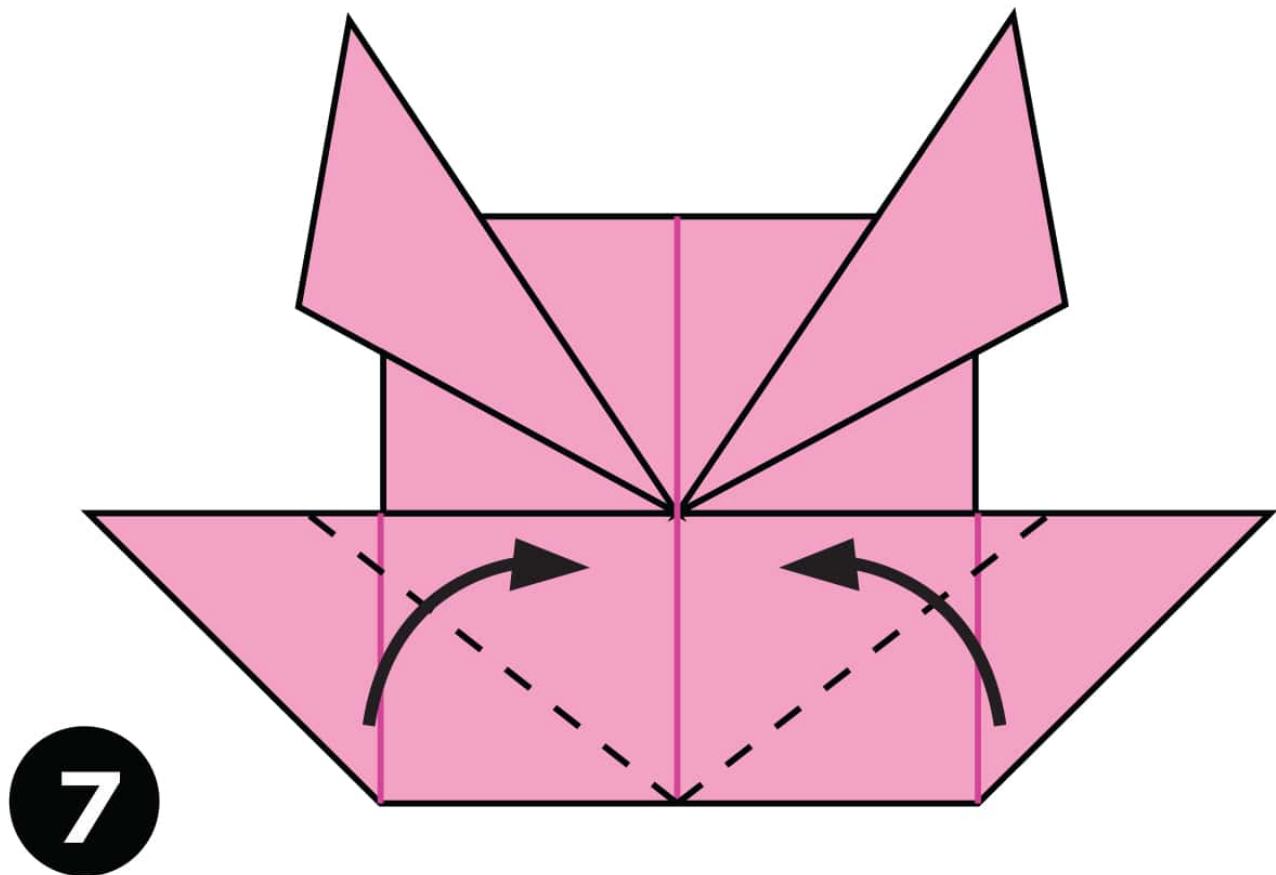

Fold the top layer of paper out along the dotted lines, fold the top down along the existing crease and flatten everything.

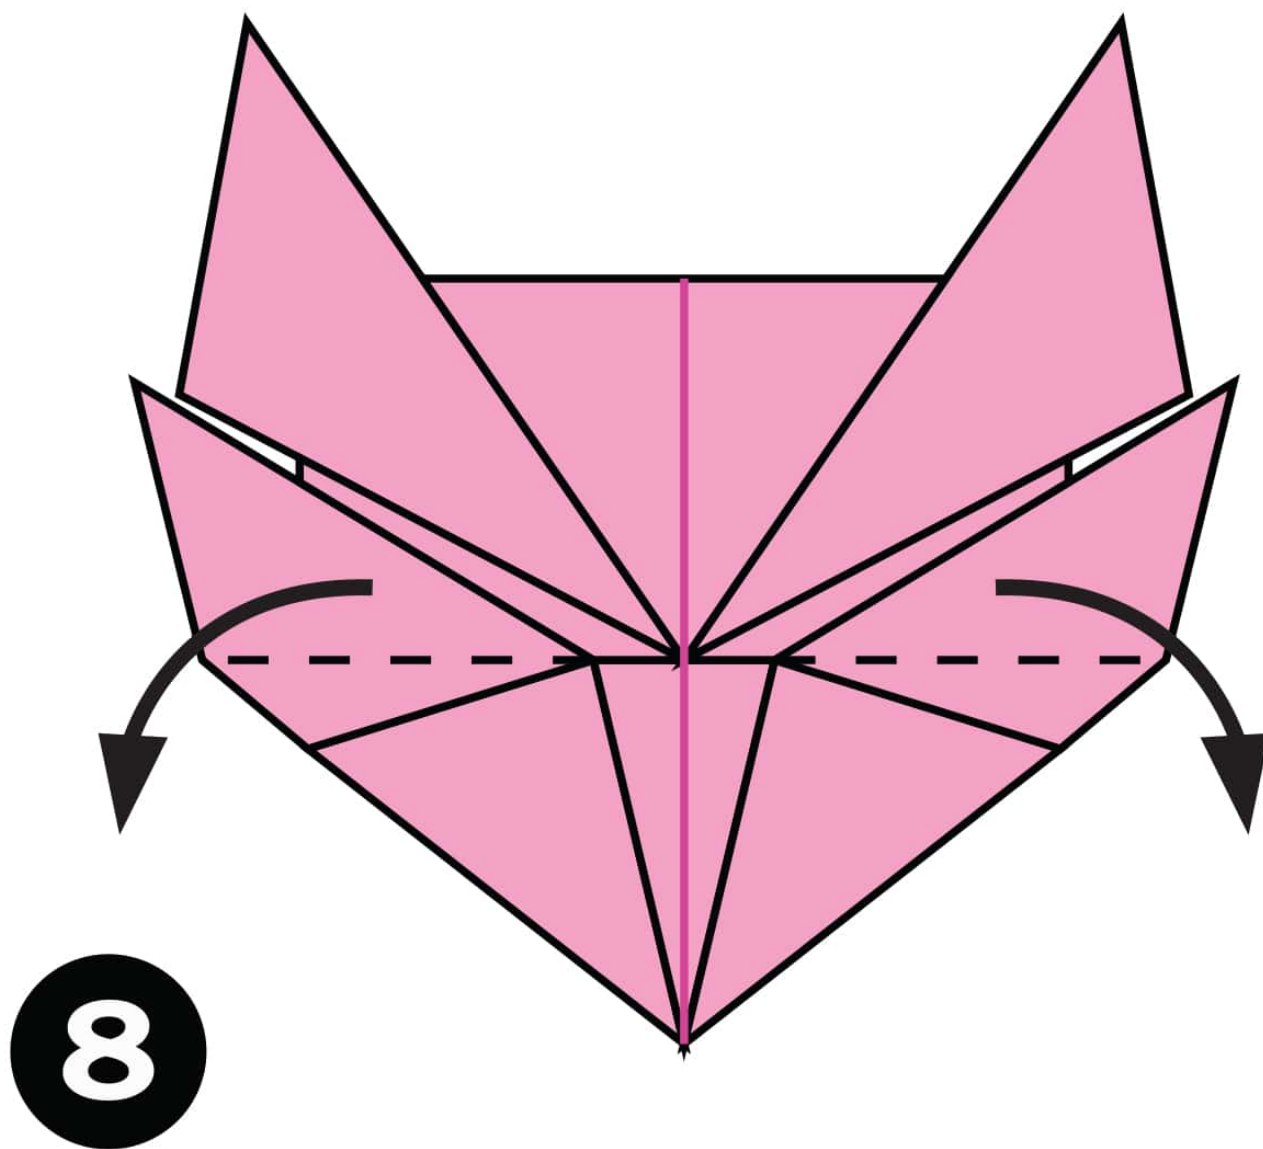

Fold the top layer of paper out along the dotted lines, fold the bottom up along the existing crease and flatten everything just like the previous step.

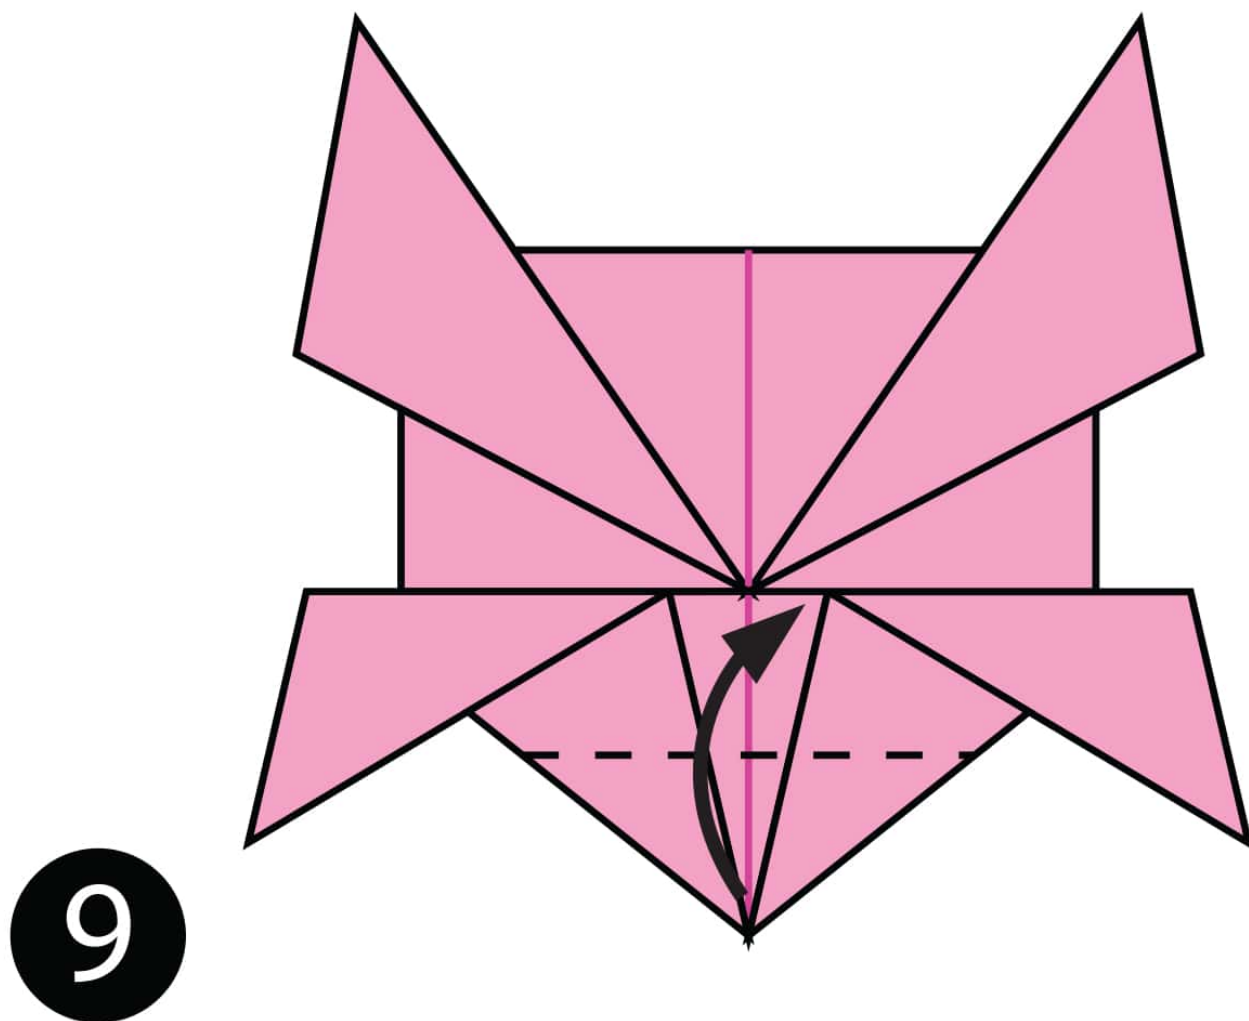

Fold the top right and left flaps up along the dotted line.

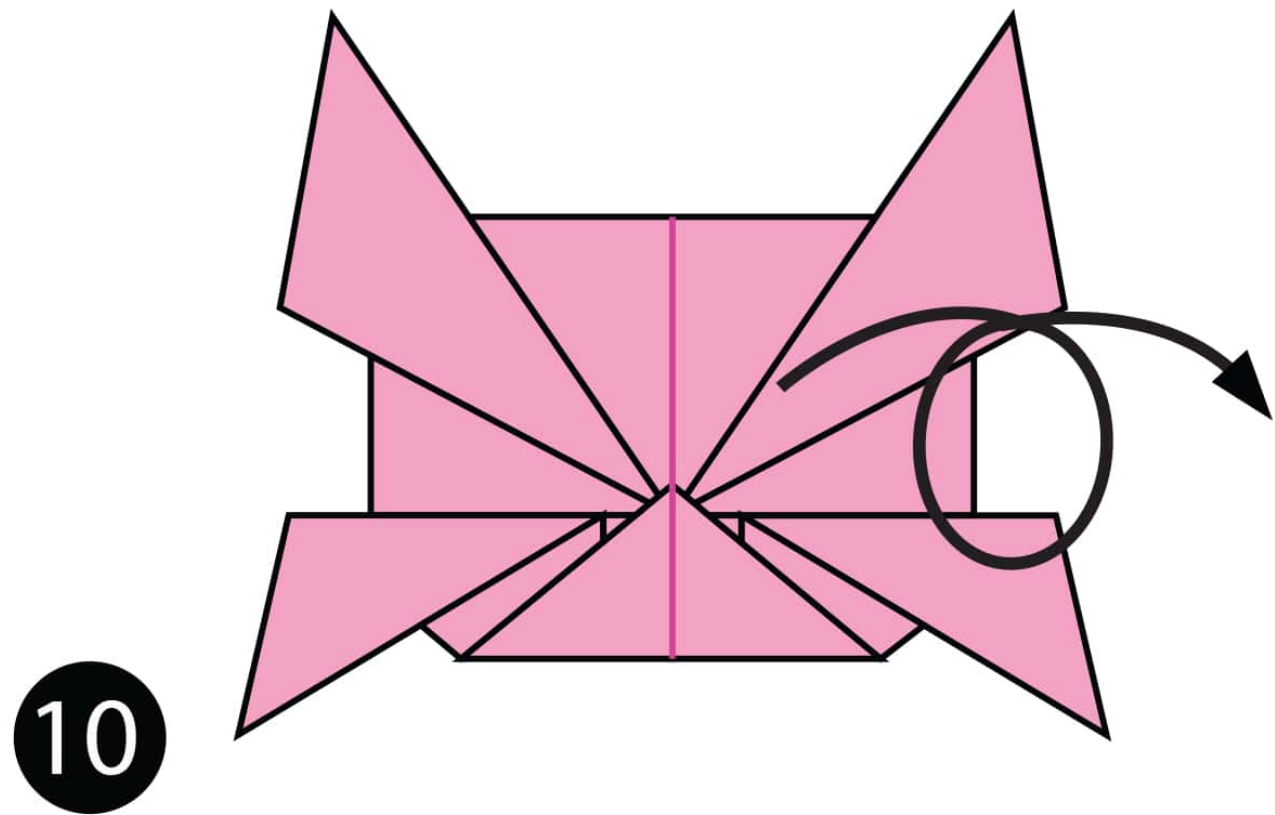

Fold the right and left flaps of paper on the bottom up along the dotted lines.

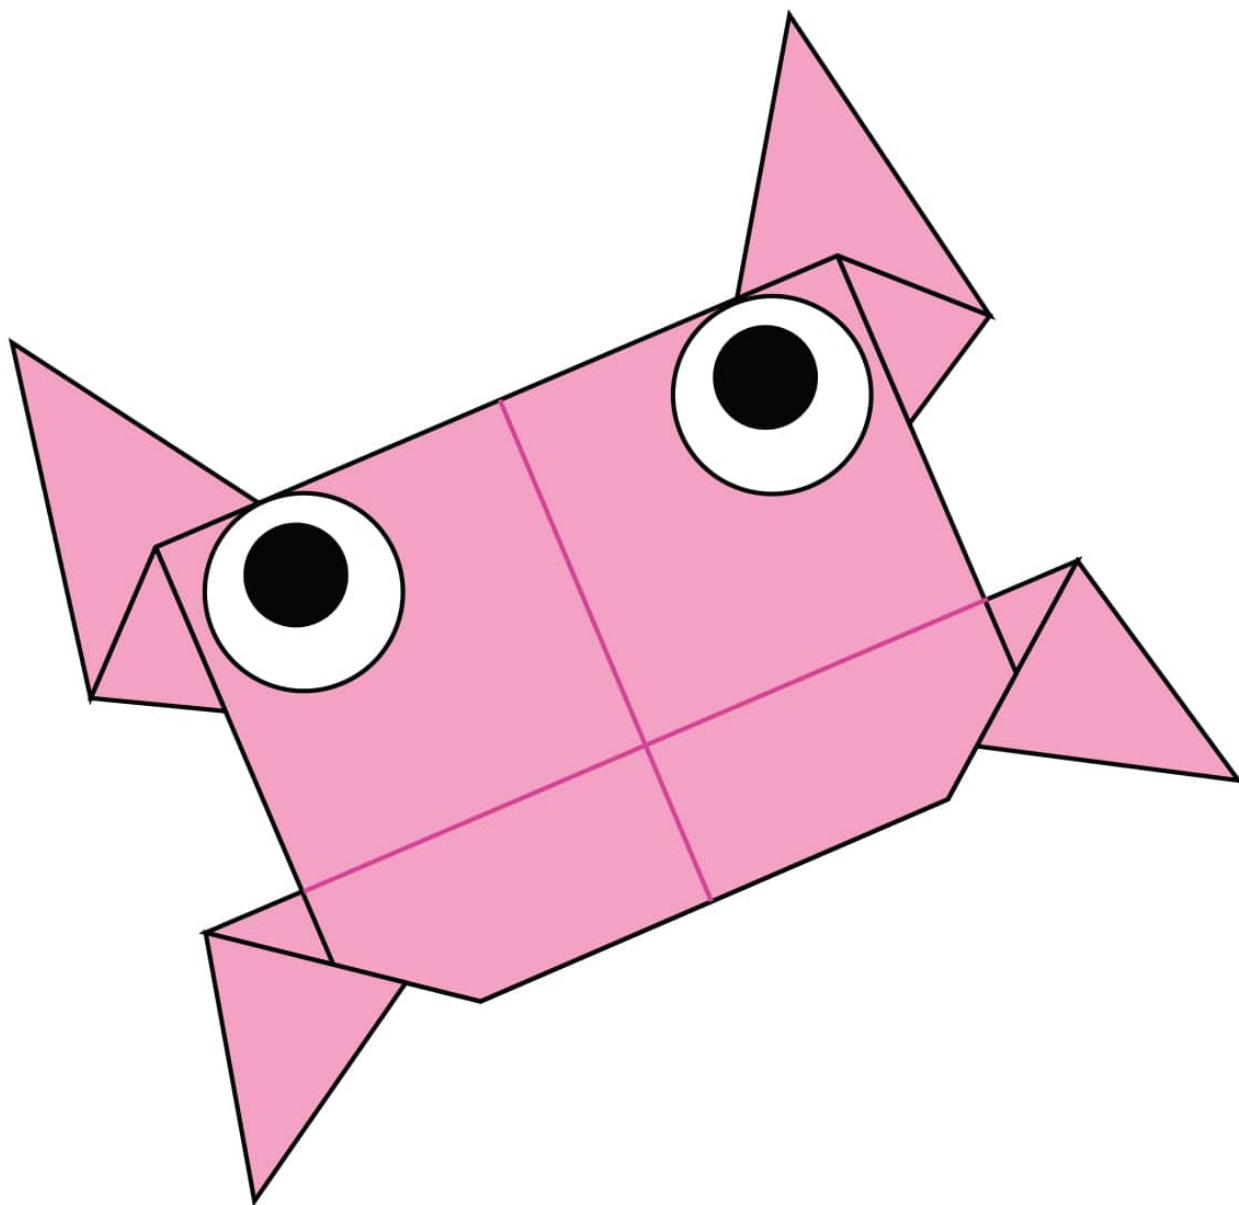

Fold these flaps of paper back down along the dotted lines.

Fold the bottom part of the paper up along the dotted line.

Turn the paper over.

The completed origami crab.

How did you do? Post a photo of your crab in the comments. If you had any trouble with any of the steps feel free to ask for help in the comments as well.

You Might Also Like...
